APRIL 22, 2010

As our University marches toward becoming the nation's best public institution of higher learning, we want you to take the next bold step with us — a first-of-its-kind experience.

AN ONLINE ADVENTURE

During this lively, real-time Internet event on April 22, you will hear from and talk to some of the University's most dynamic faculty in chat rooms; visit your favorite campus locales — the Events Center during a game, the dining hall during lunch, the Bartle Library, the Downtown Center and many more — through 360° tours that you control; play a few Binghamton-themed games for prizes; and vote on the best one-minute videos produced by members of the University community.

In short, without even leaving your home or office, you can celebrate Binghamton University and its mission as we launch the school into the new decade, ambitiously tackling some of the most pressing problems facing the world today and in years to come. And have a good time doing it.

Be a part of the special event by sending a recent, casual photo of yourself to boldbing@binghamton.edu.

FYI — Formal invitations will be sent out electronically, and we don't have your e-mail address. Please e-mail it to boldbing@binghamton.edu to receive event details to this unique experience.
